Why is this position needed (and when applicable), why did the prior incumbent leave:

Position Responsibilities (This will provide a clear vision for the job description)

What are the primary responsibilities for this role?

What are the main teams this position will work with? What qualities are you looking for in a candidate that would make them successful in collaborating with these teams? (Consider the information you gathered in advance regarding potential skills gaps that you may be looking to fill.)

How will you know if this position is going to be successful?

Principles duties (with percentages):

Checkpoint:

- Is the language used in the job summary and the position description clear and understood to a larger audience (i.e., in plain language)?
- Do you avoid using UW-Madison jargon/acronyms? Do you refer to specific UW-Madison systems that only speak to applicants who have work experience at UW-Madison?
- Have you considered flexible working hours and/or the option to work remotely to attract a larger applicant pool?

Checkpoint:

- Is the language used in the job summary and the advertising summary clear and understood to a larger audience (i.e., in plain language)?
- Who might you exclude or include in the language you use in these summaries?

Search/Advertising Strategy (this information will inform your recruitment and search process as well as your advertising strategy)

- What have you learned from similar/past recruitments? What challenges did you experience and why? What went well and what did not? Who was not involved that should have been?
Intake Meeting Form

What are your strategies to address these challenges? What will you do differently?

What would the ideal candidate pool look like? How will you achieve this? What are strategies to hold yourselves and the search and screen accountable to your goals?

Does your unit already have a talent pipeline that they can draw upon to help achieve the ideal candidate pool?

What search and screen model are you planning to use to evaluate candidates?

☐ Single hiring committee (with Hiring Manager) makes decisions after a thorough evaluation process

☐ Multiple committees screen applicants through the process and make recommendations to Hiring Manager

Why does your selected search/search and screen model best meet your recruitment needs?

Who will be on your search/search and screen committee? What skillset/knowledge are they bringing? How will they help achieve your goal to bring in a diversity of viewpoints and experiences?

Are you open to inviting members from outside of your work unit/division to serve on the committee?

What does your interview process look like? Will you need multiple interview phases? Presentations by candidates? Why?
