Job Summary:

This position works in the lab of Dr. Ozioma Okonkwo, within the Division of Geriatrics & Gerontology in the Department of Medicine at the UW School of Medicine and Public Health.

Research in the Okonkwo Lab has an overarching goal to establish effective prevention of Alzheimer's disease, with specific focus on clarifying and modulating the link between brain changes and cognitive decline by both modifiable and non-modifiable factors. The program leverages the broad state-of-the-art resources at UW-Madison, including the Wisconsin Alzheimer's Disease Research Center, the Wisconsin Registry for Alzheimer's Prevention, the Waisman Laboratory for Brain Imaging, and the UW Biotechnology Center. It involves partnerships with colleagues in geriatrics, neuroradiology, medical physics, biostatistics, genetic epidemiology, exercise physiology, and clinical chemistry; and has been supported by the National Institutes of Health/National Institute on Aging (NIH/NIA), the Alzheimer's Association, and other foundations.

The successful candidate in this position will be actively engaged in cutting-edge neuroimaging and biomarker research studies under the direction of Dr. Okonkwo, focusing on lifestyle and genetic factors related to cognitive resilience in normal aging and preclinical Alzheimer's disease. Primary areas of responsibility include data processing, data analysis, preparation of scientific writing (abstracts, posters, papers, and grants), and mentoring trainees.

The School of Medicine and Public Health has a deep and profound commitment to diversity both as an end in itself but also as a valuable means for eliminating health disparities. As such, we strongly encourage applications from candidates who foster and promote the values of diversity and inclusion.

Responsibilities:

- Researcher I \(RE040\)
- Researcher II \(RE041\)
- Researcher III \(RE042\)

Institutional Statement on Diversity:

Diversity is a source of strength, creativity, and innovation for UW-Madison. We value the contributions of each person and respect the profound ways their identity, culture, background, experience, status, abilities, and opinion enrich the university community. We commit ourselves to the pursuit of excellence in teaching, research, outreach, and diversity as inextricably linked goals.

The University of Wisconsin-Madison fulfills its public mission by creating a welcoming and inclusive community for people from every background - people who as students, faculty, and staff serve Wisconsin and the world.

For more information on diversity and inclusion on campus, please visit: Diversity and Inclusion

Education:

Required
Master's Degree
Study in psychology, neuroscience, exercise science, kinesiology, biomedical engineering, computer sciences, the life sciences, or other related fields preferred.

Qualifications:

Experience with analyses of brain images and behavioral data using applicable software and statistical packages is preferred. Candidates with relevant experience in analysis of other image types and/or data and interest in applying their skills to neuroimaging research are also encouraged to apply.

Prior experience being part of an academic clinical research group is a plus.

Supervisory experience or experience mentoring research personnel strongly preferred.
